The Pastor's Musings—

What is a Sacarium?

A sacarium is "special sink used for the reverent disposal of sacred substances. This sink has a cover, a basin, and a special pipe and drain that empty directly into the earth, rather than into the sewer system" (USCCB, Built of Living Stones, 236).

Precious or sacred items are disposed of, when possible, by returning them to the ground. Sacred books or vessels, for example, are often buried on church grounds or in a Catholic cemetery. Other items, such as altar linens, are first burned and then the ashes are buried.

Liquids, rather than pouring them into sewer or septic systems, find their way to the earth by direct pouring or through the sacarium. The water used to rinse purificators, corporals, or vessels can be poured into the sacarium.

Baptismal water, and even old holy oils, can similarly be poured into the sacarium. If cloths are used to clean a spill of the Precious Blood, these are rinsed above the sacarium. If the consecrated host is spoiled or soiled that makes consumption impossible, the sacred body can be dissolved in water then poured down the sacarium. The Precious Blood, however, is never poured into the sacarium but must be consumed (see Built of Living Stones, 236-7).

The presence of the sacarium shows our reverent care for holy things. When materials designated for a sacred purpose have completed their service, we honor them even in their disposal. By returning our sacred substances to the earth beneath the church building, we honor them, including the ground over which we worship, and the God who created them and consecrated them. This act of reverence to objects that are sacred nourishes our faith.

--Fr. Albert V. Miranda

Journey of Faith - Parish Library

Have you thought about strengthening and broadening your faith? Reading about the saints and their lives is one way to inspire you. To make your journey of faith more enjoyable, the library is in the process of updating, organizing, and rearranging our growing inventory of books and videos to better serve parishioners. In order to smooth the process, we are seeking a couple of volunteers who can help with this important apostolate. Initially, the goal will be to ensure materials are correctly categorized. Beyond that, we envision publishing an index of available titles, authors, and topics on the parish website.

If you would like to help, please contact Kay Dahms at (kdahms@mac.com) or through the parish office.
